YALE UNIVERSITY
LIBRARY

Gift of HANS P. KRAUS
 boon Tertullianus, docebat eis, ut eam dammum toti rotuli an telli sunt. Simon.
...
The passage reads: "Think also of what you have done. The fresh leaves of the tree have often been covered with dew. The dew often remains on the leaves for some time, especially when there is no wind."

The text is handwritten with a mix of letters and characters, and the overall appearance is quite abstract due to the handwriting style. The artwork features floral elements with blue spots interpreted as flowers or petals, but no clear boundary or defined shape.
IpHE^a

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum

Ipera sanum affine affinum affinum
Abiding relief and help in the strain of life.

These crotons grow fast and thrive.

To these crotons often add, in our garden, crotons.

Sue Territor

[Image of plants and handwritten notes]
null
[Handwritten text in Latin, not legible]
Non est bene dicere omni, sed dicere omni quod est bene dicere, est aliquid quod est aliquid.
[Handwritten Latin text]

[Leaf illustration]
null
[Handwritten text in Latin]
[Text in Latin, unreadable due to handwriting style and quality]
The following officers police the towns and cities of the United States: the Secretary of the Treasury, the Postmaster General, the Attorney General, the Receiver of Public Moneys, the Collector of Customs, the Comptroller of the Treasury, the Auditor of the Treasury, the Treasury Agent, and the United States Marshal. The Secretary of the Treasury is the chief executive officer of the Treasury Department, and is charged with the management of the finances of the United States. The Postmaster General is the head of the United States Postal Service, and is responsible for the delivery of mail throughout the country. The Attorney General is the head of the United States Department of Justice, and is responsible for the prosecution of cases in the federal courts. The Receiver of Public Moneys is responsible for the collection of taxes and other revenues for the federal government. The Collector of Customs is responsible for the collection of customs duties on imports and exports. The Comptroller of the Treasury is responsible for the oversight of the federal budget and the central government's financial activities. The Auditor of the Treasury is responsible for the auditing of the federal government's financial records. The Treasury Agent is responsible for the management of the federal government's investments and financial assets. The United States Marshal is a federal law enforcement officer responsible for the service of legal documents and the enforcement of federal laws.
null